YOUNG MR. QUAY AGGREEVED.

He Was Told at the Postemee That His Father Was Dead,

The City Postoffice is at present enoving a sensation occasioned by the charges much by Mr. Richard Quay, son of Senator Quay, against one of High-School grounds. The programme the cierks of the office. It appears that contained the following events: young Quay called at the general de 100 yard desh. Knight, Ward, ivery window yesterday afternoon and asked for his father's mail. The clerks were discussing the election, and when the Schator's mall was asked for some one jokingly said that it had gone to the Dond Letter Office, as the Senator

Mrs. Margaret S. Watkins had charge of the delivery window, and she, unthinking, repeated the answer to young Quay. Mr. Quay smiled and walked away, but had only gone a short dis-tance when it occurred to him that he had been insulted. He immediately went to the office of Postmester General Wanamaker, where he made his complaint. Pestmaster Sherwood received orders from Mr. Wanamaker to suspend Mrs. Watkins until the matter had been

THE SPECIAL DELIVERY OF BAG-One of the Pennsylvania Battroad's

The prompt dispatch and rendy delivery of one's laggrage is one of the most desirable conveniences of modern travel. On no rall oad in the country has this branch of the service received more thoughtful consideration than on the Pennsylvania, and the inauguration some years ago of the Special Delivery System is the most advanced step in the direction of the effective handling of personal bangage. Under this system the traveler, in advance of departure, applies to a theket agent, advises him of his destination and a transfer agent calls at restience or botel and checks the bangage through to residence or hotel in the city of his destination. If no train is designated by the first train leaving after the collection, so that it will be delivered prior to the arrival of its Great Conventences. e delivered prior to the arrival of its owner.

T. Is system prevalls between the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Illaitimore and Washington, as well as between those cities and all prominent seashore resorts on the Pennsylvania. Railroad during the season. The charge is $1, to be paid in advance.

The annoyance of having one's baggage delayed is exceeded only by the confort of inding that it has preceded the movement of its owner. Under the Special Delive y System its forwarding and delivery in a ivance is assured.

Honored by Their Associates. The following officers have been elected by the Material Men's Protective Association, No. 1, for the ensuing year: George W. Decker, president; A. E. Williams, vice-president; George J. Johnston, secretary, and Henry S. Mc-
